REMiflair IV

Design double blind

REMIflair IV

The next generation

REMIS has added an innovative blind system to the REMIflair family. Its operating function combines the advantages of a double blind with those of a combination blind to give unique functionality.

One system - two benefits!

Here, in contrast to conventional double blinds, two different blinds are combined together into just one. Plissé and insect-protection screen are to a certain extent „in circuit in series“. The pleated material can be drawn down from above in stepless manner to the desired position. If, however, one wants to have just the flyscreen function, the pleated material is first drawn right down. Then one uses the handle at the top of the pleated material – this at the same time is the lower handle of the flyscreen.

This can also be set in stepless manner to the desired position. In this way one can let fresh air come while keeping insects out at the top and at the same time have good privacy and good protection from insects at the bottom.

In addition to this simple mode of operating, REMIflair IV convinces with its extremely flat frame – naturally in a modern design. Exactly as you are accustomed to expect from REMIS!
